In memory and honor of my dear old friend Mike Kalcic. You were my life long friend, compadre, sidekick, fellow jokester, neighbor, schemer, partner in crime, and all around handyman. We did so many things and traveled to so many places together for decades, getting into and out of predicaments regularly. I could tell stories for months, if I were to start doing that. But the memories are many and some are incriminating, so we'll just savor them privately and keep it simple here. I appreciate all of the good times, swimming through bad times, and making the best with what we had at our disposal. We were the epitome of The Little Rascals, growing up in much different times. I owe you a deep debt of gratitude for all of the help and assistance you provided me over the years. From fixing my truck, to rebuilding the family tractor I bought from my dad when he sold the old homestead, to actually making that purchase happen for me even. You were always willing to chip in and help with my special projects, like setting up the light shows, or putting an addition on the old Hiram house. Our kids always loved their Uncle Mike. All of the kids loved Uncle Mike. And we were always connected like brothers, no matter how long we might go without seeing each other. Even though our life path's sent us in different directions that separated us by miles, we were always close at heart. We might not see each other for years, but that didn't matter. For whenever we would get together it was like we had just been together last week, or yesterday even. We were family. Barb said so. We were always getting together and socializing. Be it at the old brick house, or at our house in Hiram, it didn't much matter. Campfires, cookouts, golf cart rides, late night storytime, but always joking around. You were a true friend that could always bring smiles and joy to everyone that knew you. The strangest schlitiz happened whenever you were with Mike Kalcic. One would always see, hear, and witness things out of the ordinary, and Mike would always point it out in some comical way. We came to know them as Mike Kalcic moments. I will forever cherish those memories, and we will continue to use that term whenever we experience yet another "Mike Kalcic moment." It is hard to believe that it was just a few months ago earlier this year that you carried my dear sweet wife Barbara Ann to her final resting place. You said you were honored to do so. And you well know that I was honored to carry you to yours my dear friend. A sad heartfelt honor that I will remember for the rest of my days until I join you. A lot of people loved you my friend. I love you my friend. Give Barb a big bear hug for me, and a peck on the cheek. God speed Mike Kalcic. Know that you are missed by many.

My uncle Mike was more like a father to me . He raised me from the time I was 11 years old ( he and my Aunt Renee ). He taught me to drive , he taught me how to put a roof on , he taught me all kinds of things , most importantly he taught me that the little things in life that most people take for granted are the most important.. that nothing worth having in life comes easy.. I know that you love me and that you never stopped even after years passed... Just as you know that I love you !! I will never forget the Christmas that I only wanted a stereo .. I wanted it so bad . And Christmas Eve came and you and Aunt nay left .. the presents were under the tree .. I ripped open each one just enough to see what was inside. I came to this huge one , it was heavy . Sure enough it was a box that said am fm stereo dual cassette.. I was excited. You guys came back and I was allowed to open one present. You notice the presents under the tree were ripped in some places just a tiny bit.. I told you sheba had done it.. anyhow I opened my gift. It was a brand new stereo.. though I thought. I opened the box . There was another box inside it.. and another and another.. I was kinda upset to finally find a pack of life savers in this small box .. there was no stereo. Lol . I ended up getting the stereo for Christmas but they sure did pull a fast one on me!! I know you are with me always uncle Mike .. ❤️ Jessica Meier-Clark

I remember the time he walked in on me singing in the kitchen and he was my first audience and person to believe in me and my music. He was one of my best friends in the family. I'm gonna miss him 😞
